Uncertain Movements of the Gang and Local Speculation.

WILMINGTON, N. C., March 21, 1872. Since my despatch of last evening startling intelligence has reached me of the peril by which your correspondent is now menaced. While the HERALD readers continue to follow the exciting parrative of this hazardous undertaking-a journalistic feat unparalleled, so far as I am aware, on this continent-which has penetrated the swamp home of the most desperate gang of murderers that ever disgraced civiliwhile the State government of Carolina looks on irresolute and timidly waiting for some favorable opportunity to strike a blow for the confidence of the outlaws, and the federal uthorities unable to decide whether or not to declare martial law pro tem. and thus perform a duty now absolutely devolving on the inhabitants of the region, the gentleman entrusted with the mission to see the Lowerys remains a captive.

ROBESON COUNTY WISEACRES AND THE HERALD. As previously set forth in this correspondence, the suspicious and terror-stricken citisens of Robeson county, unable to rid themselves of the presence of the gang, smarting under the tyranny and cruel taxation of these "Sons of Thunder," impotent to declare war against the destroyers of their peace, the tavishers of their daughters and plunderers of their homesteads, have turned fiercely against the correspondent whose only desire is to give to the world through the great representative journal of the country the disgraceful story of crime and outlawry prevailing in their midst,

If anything can tend to arouse the government to a due sense of the burning shame to be created by any longer tolerating the domination of these outlaws it is the enterprise of the HERALD, which has already so vividly and truthfully portrayed the scenes of murder and robbery in Robeson county. Surrounded by so many evils, and scourged as the people in Lumberton, Scuffletown and other places have been for years past, it is inconceivable how these infested districts can pretend to side with the Lowerys and resent the purpose of your journal, which aims to arouse the pride of the people to an effort in behalf of humanity and civilization. BANDS OF MEN ORGANIZING.

But the labor of the HERALD has already been productive of great good, and the call made has been responded to by organizations in different sections of the State by men who are determined to no longer submit to the criticisms so profusely showered upon them. I also learn that the general government is gravely considering the quo modo of ridding Carolina of these pests of society, although no decided action has so far been taken, or, if taken, not made public or carried into effect.

THE CORRESPONDENT DECLARED AN OUTLAW. It seems now that a darker feature is to be added to the Lowery narrative and the unsuccessful attempts hitherto made to subdue them, and it will, I doubt not, appear incredible to the people of your northern clime, that the correspondent whose life has been courageously risked in the discharge of his part of the mission is now in greater danger from the colored people of Robeson county than from the outlaws whose crimes of bloodshed, rapine and wrong he seeks to expose to the country. From the following extract from to-day's Robesonian, a newspaper published at Lumberton, the county seat of Robeson county, your readers will be made acquainted with the truth that the HERALD correspondent has been declared an outlaw by the authorities of Robeson county. It will be seen from this extract that the animus of the people of Robeson is so intensified that they purpose persecution of all who seek to make known to the world the shameful state of affairs prevailing in their

ARREST ALL REPORTERS AND DETECTIVES. For several days past a reporter for the NEW YORK HERALD has been sojourning in Scuffetown, and has been seen on two or three occasions strolling about in company with the outlaws. We under-stand he claims to have been captured by them and detained as their prisoner, but the fact that he is armed in the same manuer as outlaws themselves and seems to enjoy his is a willing captive, and that he may some day become an active member of the band. This thing of reporting the situation here through the Northern newspapers is getting to be an intolerable nuisance, and we would suggest to the county authorities th propriety of putting a stop to it. Let every stranger who goes to Scuffetown and companions with the outraws be arrested and a thorough examina tion had as to the character of his mission. We have suffered enough already from these so-called reporters, detectives, et hoc genus omne, and it is high time the'r pranks were stopped.

HOT SHOT FOR THE KU KLUX SUPPORTERS. Who but these same detectives and reporters have given the outlaws the idea that so long as their edations are confined to democrats or so-called Ku Klux they will be protected, or, at least, tolerated by the government? Who but these same reporters and detectives have united the almost unanimous sentiment of the colored people in sympathy with the outlaws as the avenger of the wrongs of the negro race? It is a notable fact that the visits of these interlopers have always been followed by renewed activity and boldness on the part of the band, who visit. These men are our enemies-the unscrupulous emissaries of a malignant hate- and are even more to be dreaded than the outlaws themselves But for the support and encouragement received from abroad-from the federal government especially-from these vile emissaries from the North THE MURDERERS SUPPORTED BY GOVERNMENTS.

If these reporters, who profess so much stonishment at the fallure of the people of the county to arrest these men, would tell their readers that they are supported in their lawlessness both by the State and federal government much of the surprise awakened by these professions of astonishment would be done away with, and instead of pronouncing the would stigmatize the government that supports and encourages such flendish lawlessne wholesale robbery and murder as would be disgraceful to the most barbarous nation on the face of

Since writing the above we learn that the selfstyled reporter for the HERALD has been outlawed by a board of magistrates, and a posse is now in pursuit of him. That's the way to do it. Let every strolling Yankee that comes here to aid and abe these fiends in their work of plunder and blood be held to a strict accountability before the law as

WHAT THAT BOARD OF MAGISTRATES WOULD DO.

It is impossible to conceive anything mora foolish, more utterly silly and unjustifiable, than is this action of the Robeson authorities against the representative of the HERALD. It can hardly be doubted that they will seriously injure their own cause and that of the whole South by this stupid and pusillanimous venting of impotent rage. The correspondent went to Robeson county avowedly to interview the outlaws in the interest of the people. He proclaimed his purpose in Wilmington, on the cars and wherever it was appropriate to allude to his enterprise. His business was with the outlaws, and he had no motive other than seeing them in going to Robeson county. Naturally he has kept aloof from the white people while in the power and under the espionage of the outlaws, as any association with the whites would immediately awaken suspicion in the minds of his captors, and place his life in jeopardy.

WHY DIDN'T THEY ARREST HIM?

The HERALD correspondent, bearing of the ourpose to outlaw him, obtained permission from them to go to Lumberton and test the purpose of the authorities. Boldly presenting himself in the town, be went direct to the municipal headquarters; but, strange to say, the lion-hearted police refused to take him and he was permitted to return by the way that he came to his captors, who awaited his return at Moss Neck

THE TEMPORARY PAROLE.

The conductor of to-day's train informed me that he was an eye witness to a part of this business this morning. He said that he first emerged from the woods of pine out into the open space before the station in company with Audrew Strong and Steve Lowery, the two of the gang under whose surveillance he appears to have been placed. After a short conference and considerable gesticulating on the part of the outlaws, indicative of caution or warning, the correspondent walked into Lumberton, and, as already stated, tested the power of the authorities to arrest him. In about half an hour he returned again, but it was plainly perceptible that he was extremely uneasy, and he exhibited considerable trepidation as to his fate when he should have joined his captors. He has evidently been made fully ware of the TERRIBLE CHARACTER OF THESE MEN, and doubtless has also been frightened to some extent by their recitations to him, during the time he has been in their company, of the fate of Saunders and many others whom accident or business placed within their reach. According to this conductor, whom I have found to be a candid, sensible individual, be feared lest the outlaws should suspect him of foul play and mete out to him the only degree of punishment recognized by these lords of the swamp-death. "I am aware," said he, "that the HERALD officer is understood by all the sensible people I meet to be desirous of leaving no feature of the dark and bloody history of the Lowery gang unrevealed, and whenever the full details are written the world will stand aghast; but should they suspect this testing authority to be a blind to betray them, his life is not worth a moment's purchase. After meeting again with the outlaws at Moss Neck, who, as usual were armed to the teeth, further discussion appeared to take place, and finally Andrew Strong shouldered his Spencer rifle, led the way beneath the gloomy shades of the pine forest and into those districts now accursed by the

VIOLENT SHEDDING OF HUMAN BLOOD and indescribable tortures, sacred only to the bloodthirsty fiends in the form of men who have violated every law and desecrated the image of Him they claim to represent. Placing himself between the two bandits the correspondent marched off, unable to move either to the right or left without fear of violence or assassination. Should he not be injured by the outlaws he stated that he would again visit Lumberton for the purpose of allowing the authorities of Robeson to execute their silly and vaporing menaces, if he shall succeed in persuading the outlaws to trust him again away from their immediate presence. It is not yet definitely ascertained how serious and of what character are

THE SUSPICIONS OF THE OUTLAWS as to the purpose of the HERALD representative in visiting Lumberton the first time since his capture. As the train passed through the Scuffletown section to-day nothing was seen of any of the outlaws or of the HERALD correspondent. In consequence of the absence of intelligence, speculation is active here and along the line of the road as to the probable fate of the HERALD representative. Until I can obtain positive information from your correspondent, I shall content myself with encouraging the HERALD readers to believe him still uninjured.

A PRISONER CONDITIONALLY.

The period of his detention is dependent upon circumstances, the duration of which cannot be definitely predicted. Your correspondent was told by the outlaws when first detained that he would have to remain with them until Donohoe, alias McQueen, who claims to have shot Boss Strong, shall be killed. Donohoe was on the train yesterday, when the HERALD correspondent came to Lumbertou, and the outlaws could then have killed him, but for the agreement between them and the railroad authorities, which prohibits the latter from allowing armed passsengers in pursuit of the outlaws upon their trains, and probibits the outlaws from visiting the trains with hostile purpose towards any passengers. Inasmuch as the killing of Donohoe is necessarily a very uncertain event as to time, even should he be killed at all, it is impossible to form any idea as to the date of the release of the correspondent.

AVENGING A BROTHER'S BLOOD. Andrew Strong insists upon his right as a brother to avenge the shooting of Boss Strong. Nothing can exceed the bitterness of the denunciation of Donohoe by the outlaws, and their menaces against him clearly indicate their terrible purpose of vengeance. "Donohoe will live a powerful short time," was the grim remark of Steve Lowery to the HERALD correspondent. Andrew Strong, when he had become fully assured as to the Herald mission and when his vanity had been sufficiently appealed to by the dextrous approaches of the correspondent, emphatically asserted his brother's right as the chief agent of vengeance upon Do

"LAYING FOR" THE DONOHUE. Said Andrew Strong, "I will lay for Dono. hue, and I ain't going to shoot him through no cathole neither." Until this threat of Andrew Strong against Donohue has become an accomplished fact the chances of your correspondent's release from the bondage into which he unexpectedly entered pursuance of his part of the mission among the Lowerys are very small indeed. In considering the possible danger of the situation the fact is not to be overlooked that, prompted by a prejudice which is cowardly and a suspicion which is contemptible to sensible men, some of the STREET CORNER HEROES OF LUMBERTON. who have manifested such extraordinary generalship in avoiding encounters with the Lowerys, may seek exhibition of their prowess by shooting him under cover whenever he shall appear after his release by the gang. To shoot a HERALD man would be quite a feather in the plume of the notoriety-seeking lounger here, and it is to be remembered that a color of pretext is given for such a dastardly act by the pronunciamento against the correspondent by the Robeson county authorities.

CONTEMPLATED ASSASSINATION.

It is to be hoped in the interests of American manhood and Anglo-Saxon civilization that the assassination of the HERALD correspondent will not be attempted, since, should it occur, no outrage more wanton and no murder more cowardly and atrocious could ever stain the annals of this civilized Commonwealth. In Wilmington, a community which embodies its full share of the best intelligence and real conservatism of the South, the attempted outlawry of the HERALD representative is unanimously condemned and execrated as an exhibition of petty spite and im-otent venom.

THE CHIEF OF THE DETECTIVES ATTACKED BY ROWDIES AT HARRY HILL'S.

Yesterday a sparring exhibition was tendered to Bill Cannon, a Brooklyn pugilist, at Harry Hill's, 20 Houston street. After several sparring displays by Saunders, McGinnis, Taylor, Dwyer, Hogherty, Hogan and Cannon, a rough named Huzhes struck James Irving, Cnief of the Detectives, and was promptly knocked down by that officer. Great excitement prevailed, and there were cries of "murter," "police," &c. Revolvers and knives were drawn, and a number of the thugs attacked Mr. Irving. He fought like a Trojan in defending himself, and was assisted by Harry Hill and Johnny McCarthy, by whose efforts the row was suppressed. But for the presence of mind shown by Irving, in all probability several persons would have been injured. Dogherty, Hogan and Cannon, a rough named

THE TRAINING.

At one of the latest training efforts of the Cambridge men they had comparatively smooth weather during a run to Ditton, and there was a large number of spectators to witness the practice. The only change in the constitution of the crew at that time was that Close. Sr., took the stroke oar, instead of Baggallay, of Caius. The President, Mr. Goldie, steered down to the railway bridge, whence, in company with Mr. Lowe, of Christ's, he coached down to Baltsbite. In returning Mr. Goldie took the fourth oar, deputing Spencer to coach up to the railway bridge.

The Oxfords kept in training on the Isis. The river continued very much swollen of late days an immense body of water having come down during a portion of the time. The President had his crew out for practice notwithstanding, Mr. Awdry at one time occupying Mr. Armistead's place (No. 2), that gentleman suffering from a very severe cold, and Mr. Giles returned to No. 3 in place of Mr. Farrer. The crew rowed over the short course to Iffley and back, being coached from horseback by the treasurer, Mr. Banks. A very decided improvement was evident both in their time and swing at the very latest days of their
